Adding a short ferry trip to your travel itinerary is one of the unique things to do on your vacation. It's an excellent option; either with friends or with your family; the best way to relax as well as enjoy nature while you are on the move.

Not everyone will think of a Ferry or Cruise as flying has become cheap. This blog is about a 29€ Ferry trip from Athens to Mykonos, one of the world's beautiful islands.

Athens to Mykonos Ferry itinerary

Which Ferry?

Blue Star Ferries is the cheapest operator in this route: Athens <—> Mykonos. Other than that, they have a wide range of routes to places like Chios, Delos, Patmos, Paros. Check the official website for more info.

Starting point

The Ferry departs from Athens Pireas port at 7.30 am. Reach the port early as you have to collect your tickets at the counter even if you book online. We reached around 6.30 am and few coffee shops were already open.

Duration

The specified travel duration when you book tickets from Athens to Mykonos is 4.5 hours. But practically expect it last about 5 or 5.15 hours.

Tip: A Ferry or Cruise leaving a dock is always fascinating to watch. So don't miss it.

Price

One way ticket costs 29€. For this price, you get a deck seat. It means you are allowed to sit anywhere on the Ferry's deck. There are no reservations. If the journey is overnight or you need personal space, then opt for a cabin seat. It costs ~ 65€ and comes with a berth.

Stops at Syros and Tinos

In between the journey, the Ferry stops in two small islands (Syros and Tinos). If you have more time, try doing a hop on hop off to these islands.

Facilities inside the Ferry

Luggage storage

There is a special area to store your luggage. They are free but not protected by anyone. It works on a trust basis. So have your personal stuff and travel documents like passport along with you.

Bar

There is also a small bar serving drinks and coffee. As one expects, the prices are a bit higher.

Viewpoints

The Ferry's open upper deck is the striking point. Grab a drink, sit down enjoy the Ferry sailing through the sea. The views are breathtaking, a perfect spot for pictures.

Note: After an hour, expect seasickness. So be prepared.

Mykonos arrival

Around 1.30 pm, the Ferry reached Mykonos. To know more, read ‘Things to do in Mykonos’
